Reuben Fischer-Baum

reuben.fischerbaum@gmail.com
207 449 5460

WORK

FiveThirtyEight Visual Journalist, 2014 to present

– Design and develop interactive projects while providing necessary data collection, analysis, and reporting. Project manage the site's major sports interactives, including March Madness predictions and NFL coverage.

– Work on the site's daily graphic production. Coordinate with writers to shape the visualizations included in their pieces.

– Pitch and report on a variety of subjects, such as urban planning, the NFL, and criminal justice.

The New School Lecturer, 2015 to present

– Instructor for "Data Visualization & Information Aesthetic" at the Parsons School of Design.

Deadspin Graphics Editor, 2012-2014

– Created charts, maps, and interactives for Deadspin and other Gawker Media sites; pitched and reported original pieces with accompanying data collection and research.

Times Square Alliance Research Associate, 2011-2013

– Produced economic research and graphics for the business improvement district.

AWARDS & RECOGNITION

– Atlas of Design honorary mention for "New York City's Edges Are Uber-Heavy", 2016
– Malofiej bronze medal for "The Complete History of the NFL" and a team silver, 2015
– Information Is Beautiful short list for "How Madden Ratings Are Made", 2015
– "Is Your State's Highest-Paid Employee A Coach?" included in Best American Infographics and presented as evidence in O'Bannon v. NCAA, 2014
– Yale Gaylord Donnelley Prize in Environmental Studies, 2011

EDUCATION

Yale University B.A. in Environmental Studies with distinction, 2011

COMPUTER SKILLS

Javascript, D3, Node, R, Dplyr/ggplot, HTML/CSS, Pug, Sass, Gulp, Adobe Illustrator, QGIS